Saloons Will Quit Without Contest.

The saloons in Bristol, Va., will go quietly out of existence May 1 without a contest.

Through their counsel some weeks ago they sought to have the local option election recalled, but Judge Price ruled against them.

"The whiskey people are estopped, under the law," said Judge N. P. Oglesby, of their counsel, to a Herald-Courier reporter yesterday, "from going to the supreme court with the case after the election. The law says that license shall not be granted after the election if it is carried against the saloons, and they will go out May 1st."

The whiskey people contended that the poll taxes of persons eligible to vote in the election must be paid six

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

To the Memory of Mrs. C. L. Wilson, Adopted by the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church, April 16th, 1907.

Another of our aged members has heard the Master's call and has been translated to the home above. This time death has claimed our oldest member, Mrs. C. L. Wilson. She was born more than four score years ago in the county of Mecklenburg, N. C., and on the morning of March the 20th, we were called by the unerring wisdom of our Father to part with one who was near and dear to us all. Many of her last days were spent in physical suffering, yet without murmuring or complaint. She united with the Presbyterian church at an early age and was not unprepared for the hour of her departure. Her faith had ripened into that happy assurance expressed in the words of the Apostle, "I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day. After a brief funeral service at her home on Watauga Ave. conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. E. Brown, her remains were taken to her old home in North Carolina for interment.

Whereas, The Great Head of the Church has, in infinite wisdom, seen fit to remove from our midst our beloved sister and friend, Mrs. C. L. Wilson, therefore,

Resolved, first, That while we bow in humble submission to the inscrutable decree, we desire to accept with unwavering faith the declaration of our blessed Savior, that what I do thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know hereafter.

Resolved, second, That we record our sense of the loss to the society of one who was a true and noble advocate of its principles, and in her life we recognize many noble traits of character, worthy of our emulation. She possessed and exercised a charity and a generosity which was worthy of our highest respect and esteem. Her virtues were indeed many, and her faults few.

Resolved, third, That we offer to her children our tenderest sympathy in this sad bereavement, and assure them of our prayer that the God of all grace and consolation sanctify to their highest welfare this act of his providence. May they realize that behind every storm of trial and every cloud of sorrow is the heavenly blue of Christ's unchangeable love, and trust him to make this sorrow, severe as it is, break some day into a blessing.

Resolved, fourth, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the city papers for publication, also that we send copies of these resolutions to the stricken children of the departed as tokens of assurance that in their deep afflictions we, too, are sorely afflicted, yet would entreat them to

Pioneer Citizen Here.
E. H. Seneker, a pioneer citizen of Bristol, and one of the first merchants of King's Meadows, came to this city yesterday afternoon from Johnson City to vote "dry" in the local option election.

Mr. Seneker spent the winter with his daughter, Mrs. P. H. Wofford, at Johnson City. He was prominent in the early history of Bristol, and was in fact, prominent in business here until a few years ago, when he disposed of his mercantile interests and has since been living in retirement.—Bristol Herald-Courier.

Mrs. C. E. Smith Dead.
After a comparatively short illness, Mrs. C. E. Smith died Wednesday afternoon at her home on Walnut street. The end came peacefully while surrounded by her family and other relatives. She was a noble christian woman and leaves a husband and a large family of children to mourn their loss. Dr. Smith came to this city several years ago from Bakersville, N. C., and his wife early endeavored herself to her neighbors and her death will be keenly felt by a wide circle of friends. Funeral services were held at the residence Thursday afternoon by Rev. J. J. Robinette and the remains were buried in Oak Hill.

Rapid Progress on Clinch Mountain Tunnel.
E. V. Rawn, the capable and genial superintendent of the S. Walton Contracting Company, informs us that work on the contract of his company is moving along satisfactorily, notwithstanding the many drawbacks that they have had to encounter. He says the tunnel through Clinch mountain is being moved forward rapidly and that it lacks only a little over thirteen hundred feet of being through, that is, the first lift. About 100 feet a week is being made now, so that by the middle of July the light will be let pass under the mountain.

Some time ago we mentioned that a very hard rock had been encountered. This ledge, he says, was about 67 feet thick and has been worked through. The rock now is not so difficult to cut. That kind of rock was found at another place near the tunnel on the south side, and was so hard that with a piece of it you could scratch the hardest steel.—Gate City Herald.

months in advance, and that less than fifty were eligible. Judge Price held that this only applied to elections for officers, and not to local option contests. The attorneys for the saloons were preparing to go to the supreme court and ask for a mandamus, but the voters declared that they could carry the election.—Herald-Courier.
